I contracted The Nichols Team to construct our new veterinary hospital in 2010. Many people warned me to “get ready,” that building new would be a terrible experience. Thanks to The Nichols Team, the process was exciting and fun.

John Nichols and his team provided great financial value and delivered the project on time. They collaborated with my architect and found ways to prevent cost overruns without sacrificing the building integrity. They maintained full-time supervision to assure seamless delivery and performance.

Lastly, long after the project's completion, John has personally been to the building on several occasions to assist us.

The next construction project will not require vetting multiple builders. I can go directly to The Nichols Team with complete confidence.
